

Corrigendum

Biolinguistics Editorial Team*

* Correspondence: admin@biolinguistics.eu

Correction for the Forum contribution by Shi and Zhang (2021) which was first published in Biolinguistics on 6 September 2021.

The authors note that the affiliation of Elizabeth Qing Zhang should list Sun Yat-Sen University in addition to Nicolaus Copernicus University, as well as the University Center of Excellence IMSert – Interacting Minds, Societies, Environments in that particular order. Furthermore, the authors note that the corresponding author's e-mail address should read “zhangqing3@mail.sysu.edu.cn”.

The corrected author affiliations line and corresponding author line appear below. The online version has been corrected.

² Department of Psychology, Sun Yat-Sen University, China

³ Center for Language Evolution Studies, Nicolaus Copernicus University, Toruń, Poland

⁴ University Center of Excellence IMSert – Interacting Minds, Societies, Environments, Nicolaus Copernicus University, Toruń, Poland

* Corresponding author: zhangqing3@mail.sysu.edu.cn

References

Shi, Edward Ruoyang, & Elizabeth Qing Zhang. 2021. Subcortical Contributions to the Uniqueness of Human Cognition A Commentary on Laland & Seed (2021). Biolinguistics, 15. 12–21.